

The Proxy War: From Pressure to Power

By Prince Ra Hotep El

A journey of transformation, power, truth, and self-mastery.

The proxy war Corporate or Municipal and what happens to the mind if your not strong enough to go through it how it effects the psyche and conscious mind and how you are numb to life and become a drug addict or alcoholic and many cases if you were in a fraternity or sorority or a secret society on many levels. To over come the Proxy Wars set against our people we must have knowledge experience and then wisdom applied you can't speak on something you didn't experience and then grew from, I know what a proxy war is and what it could do to a man woman boy or girl a people.

1. Traumatize you,
2. Cause you to be triggered,
3. Make you a monster,
4. You become toxic,
5. You join the proxy war criminal side to save yourself selfishly,

6. Temptations to un alive oneself,
7. Tempted to un alive others whom are apart of the proxy war against you, because they keep fucking with you in many ways,
8. Blocked from many government systems and this can be a good thing if you want out of their weak ass system
9. Tie you into gang stalking, or just stalking others to get a little money to survive
10. Stay there and take it. Most people do nothing to protect themselves, they allow the situation to happen then they block it out by many distractions or they move and think its over,.. I moved from Detroit to California to Nevada to Florida and so on... but they continued attacking with their proxy war...
11. You second guess yourself your purpose and the meaning of your own life.

Chapter 1 — The Beginning: When You Don't Know You're Under Attack

A proxy war begins subtly. It starts with confusion, rumors, and social manipulation. People reappear from the past. False narratives are created. Communities become divided.

What seems random eventually reveals itself as a pattern.

A proxy war is something most people never recognize while they're in it.

You don't wake up one day and say, "I'm under attack."
It happens slowly, quietly, through people and situations that begin to shift.

Looking back, this didn't start in Nevada or California. It goes back to the mid-90s.

Before I got married in June of 1997, while I was dating my cohort, things started happening that didn't add up.

Women I hadn't seen in years started appearing—showing up at my mother's house, approaching my family, going to my church, spreading rumors.

I hadn't seen some of these women in 2 to 6 years, yet they were claiming relationships and pregnancies.

At the time, I didn't call it a proxy war. I thought it was drama.

But this was narrative creation.

They were moving through relatives, friends, church members, and leadership—planting seeds.

They found out where I went to church, who I was dating, and used that information.

The pressure reached pastors and leadership, and it began affecting my relationship.

My cohort had to ask me if any of it was true.

My family confirmed the truth: these people hadn't seen me in years.

Looking back now, that was the beginning.

A proxy war starts with people, perception, and pressure—not systems.

At the same time, I was traveling, building my music business, and promoting records.

I didn't even have time for the accusations being made.

But in a proxy war, truth doesn't matter—perception does.

This was both physical and spiritual. When people can be used against you, they will be.

This was positioning, not coincidence.

You don't recognize a proxy war when it begins—you recognize it after you survive it.

A narrative of early signs, pressure, and awareness.

Internal Warfare: What a Proxy War Does to the Mind

You may find this on the website the Court of Record section many files to read and research and all documents are lawfully created by out Melchizedek Priesthood El

When a person is placed under a proxy war—through stalking, harassment, isolation, and systemic pressure—it does not just attack their environment.

It attacks their mind.

It causes:

- self-doubt
- confusion of purpose
- physical breakdown (weight gain, weight loss, insomnia, pain)
- emotional exhaustion

Over time, if not recognized, it leads to internal self-destruction.

A person begins to fight themselves instead of the situation.

That is the real battlefield.

The Reality Most People Miss

These situations don't start suddenly.
They build over time.

Patterns begin to form:

- people reappearing out of nowhere
- false accusations being spread
- personal information being accessed and used
- coordinated confusion in social environments

At the time, it seems random.

In reality, it is systematic.

Early Signs of the Proxy Pattern

Before marriage, during the dating period, events begin to appear:

- people from years prior resurfacing with false claims
- rumors being planted through family and church networks
- personal life being discussed without consent

These are not isolated incidents.

They are pressure points.

The objective:
Create instability.
Create doubt.
Create division.

The Setup Environment

In professional spaces, similar patterns appear:

- staff unexpectedly absent
- chaotic conditions created
- confrontation engineered

The result:
- physical injury
- emotional pressure
- forced change in direction

What appears as coincidence is often structure.

Spiritual + Physical War

This is not just physical.
This is not just psychological.

This is energetic.

A system of influence using people, situations, and information.

When enough individuals are influenced...

It becomes a coordinated environment.

Especially when the attorney we hired in Los Angeles worked for the bank we were suing.

A proxy war.

Recognition is the Turning Point. What I recognized most was the multiple attacks, a. I sold a car to what I thought was a fellow going church brother whom used my identity in that same care and I had a $300 warrant in my name, I had left Detroit Michigan for the past 5 years at this point living in California. Before this point people from the same church was using our identity as a husband and wife team. Stolen checks out of our mailbox in two locations and got caught, and an attorney we hired worked for the very company we were suing. I mean what a time to realize how mentally ill people are when they see your light, want a piece of it and will do anything to gain access. He the attorney Douglas E. Klein of Los Angeles California. This man represented Chase Bank while sitting on our case for over a year collecting mail and then we demanded our deposit back, he got pissed and created fictions in our name and image likeness creating addresses phone number as a retaliation to the refund and working with the Corporate Proxy War leaders hidden in plain sight.

Everything changes when you recognize:

This is not random.

This is not coincidence. This is a pattern, and once you see the pattern... You stop blaming yourself.

Your not seeing double Melchizedek jumps space and time. The king within aka the Christ.

Chapter 2 — Internal Warfare: What It Does to the Mind and Body

Once a proxy war begins externally, it does not stay outside. It moves inward.

This is where most people lose.

Not because they are weak... but because they are unprepared for what happens next.

When you are being stalked, harassed, ignored, blocked, and constantly pressured, it begins to affect your internal world.

You start to question everything.

You question:

- yourself
- your purpose
- your direction
- your reality

This is not accidental. This is psychological pressure.

Over time, the effects begin to show physically.

The body begins to break down:

- weight gain or extreme weight loss
- hair loss
- lack of sleep
- joint pain, back pain, foot pain
- constant stress and tension

You may feel like you are losing control of your own body.

This is trauma.

Many people do not recognize it, and instead of facing it, they turn to distractions.

Some turn to:

- drugs
- alcohol
- entertainment
- isolation
- overworking themselves

Others become:

- angry
- toxic
- reactive
- destructive

Some even begin to think about harming themselves or others.

These are real outcomes of prolonged pressure.

A proxy war is designed to push a person into one of these states.

Why?

Because once you lose control internally,
you are easier to control externally.

Some people join the very system that is harming them,
just to survive.

Others begin to stalk or follow others,
just to make money.

Others do nothing at all.

They take it.

They suppress it.
They bury it.

They move away and think it's over.

But it is not over.

It follows.

No matter where you go:

- Detroit
- California
- Nevada
- Florida

The same patterns continue.

That is when you begin to understand:

This is not location-based.

This is targeted pressure.

And the most dangerous part is this:

You begin to second guess yourself.

You begin to doubt your purpose.

You begin to ask:

“Is it me?”

That question alone has broken many people.

But here is the truth:

It is not you.

It is what is being applied to you.

The moment you realize that,
you take your power back.

You stop reacting emotionally.

You start observing.

You start documenting.

You start understanding.

And once you understand...

you can no longer be controlled the same way.

The internal battle is the real battle.

Win that...

and everything else begins to shift.

Your mind aka your own universe will shine within you'll just have to notice the correct prisms lights and frequencies, if your gut tells you someone is doing something wrong, that's the inner light showing you, don't fight it don't doubt it focus and see.

Chapter 3 — Systemic Escalation: When It Enters the System

Once the proxy war moves beyond people and environments, it enters systems.

This is where things become undeniable.

What started as rumors and social pressure begins to show up in:

- banking systems
- legal systems
- government systems
- identity records

This is no longer perception.

This is documentation.

In my experience, this is where the situation escalated.

I began to notice issues with banking.

Overdrafts would appear.

Money would be taken.

Charges didn't make sense.

At the time, I addressed it directly with the bank.

But looking back now, this was part of a larger pattern.

Then came identity issues.

I discovered that:

- properties were placed in my name
- tickets were issued under my identity
- people were using my name in situations I had nothing to do with

This is where confusion turns into clarity.

Because now, there is proof.

One of the most serious incidents involved insurance checks.

After the house fire, checks were issued.

But instead of being sent to where we were staying, they were sent to the damaged property.

Those checks were stolen.

People attempted to impersonate me and my wife, walking into banks and trying to cash them.

The amounts ranged from:

- $20,000
- up to $110,000

This was no longer random behavior.

This was coordinated activity.

Fortunately, someone recognized that it wasn't us.

Law enforcement became involved:

- postal inspectors
- investigators

And the individuals were caught.

But the bigger question remained:

How did they know?

How did they know:

- where the checks were being sent
- how much money was involved
- how to attempt to cash them

This is when it became clear that the situation had moved beyond coincidence.

It had entered systems.

From that point forward, the same pattern continued.

Identity theft.

Financial manipulation.

False claims.

Even years later, I encountered situations where:

- tickets appeared under my name
- properties were listed under my identity
- legal actions were taken without my involvement

This is what a systemic proxy war looks like.

It uses:

- paperwork
- records
- institutions

To create pressure.

Most people cannot fight this level,
because they do not understand the system.

They react emotionally instead of strategically.

But once you see it...

you cannot unsee it.

You begin to understand:

This is not just people.

This is structure.

And once you understand
structure,
you begin to learn how to navigate it.

This is where the shift begins from being targeted...

to becoming aware.

And awareness is the beginning of control.

Chapter 4 — Awareness & Pattern Recognition

This is where everything changes.

At some point, after enough repetition, enough pressure, and enough situations that don't make sense, you begin to see patterns.

Different people... same behavior.
Different places... same outcomes.
Different systems... same pressure.

That's when awareness begins.

You start realizing:
This is not random.

You begin to connect events across years:

- early relationship attacks
- church infiltration
- identity issues
- financial manipulation
- legal interference

It all starts forming a pattern.

Once you see the pattern, you cannot unsee it.

This is the turning point.

Most people never reach this point because they stay emotional.
They react instead of observe.

But once you step back and observe, you gain clarity.

You begin to understand:

- who benefits
- who participates
- how the system works

And more importantly:

You begin to understand yourself.

Awareness is power.

Because once you see clearly, you stop being controlled the same way.

You stop reacting.
You start responding.

And when that happens...

The proxy war begins to lose its power over you.

Declaration of Prior Rights and Evidence of Ceded Lands

DECLARATION OF PRIOR RIGHTS AND EVIDENCE OF CEDED LANDS

Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations Treaty of 1866, Article 15

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

This declaration affirms the prior rights of the Choctaw and Chickasaw peoples to lands as guaranteed under Article 15 of the Treaty of 1866.

ARTICLE 15: PRIOR RIGHT TO LAND

Every Choctaw and Chickasaw citizen shall have the right to one quarter-section of land. If in possession or occupancy of improved or cultivated land, they retain prior rights to that land.

EVIDENCE OF CEDED LAND

Agricultural Non-Population Schedules (1850–1880) document:

- Farm ownership and management
- Improved and unimproved acreage
- Cultivated land use
- Agricultural production

These records establish proof of possession and use.

AFFIRMATION OF RIGHTS

Prior rights are established through:

- Actual possession
- Improvement of land
- Cultivation and use

These rights existed before the transition to severalty ownership.

CONCLUSION

The Agricultural Schedules provide clear documentation of prior rights.

These rights cannot be extinguished without due process and just compensation. They cannot take what was already established through occupation, improvement, and cultivation.

Know your treaties. If you dont they will own you your land home the air around you and all natural resources. Remember if they can control the weather which ive seen and its not all powerful but if they can do that for example we moved into the house 8237 Fawn Brook Ct Las Vegas Nevada Centennial Hills Nevada southern Las Vegas, that summer we purchased $5000 in lawn furniture and pool furniture, the wind blew our furniture out of the backyard and down the street lucky for us it hit no ones home or cars but it was two blocks away the other furniture was down at the bottom of the pool, trust me that was not normal weather in Nevada not at all, it was controlled and focused on our property only no one else had damages like we had.

Chapter 5 — Reclaiming Power: From Pressure to Control

After awareness comes the most important phase:

Reclaiming power.

This is where the shift happens.

Most people, when they go through prolonged pressure, break.

They react emotionally.

They lash out.

They run.

They hide.

They self-destruct.

But this is the moment where a different choice must be made.

Instead of reacting...

You observe.

Instead of panicking...

You think.

Instead of collapsing...

You rebuild.

This is where knowledge becomes your weapon.

You begin to:

- document everything

- study systems

- learn how structures operate

- understand legal frameworks

- understand financial systems

You stop depending on others to save you.

You begin saving yourself.

This is where experience turns into wisdom.

Not just knowing something...

But applying it.

This is what separates those who survive from those who evolve.

Because survival is not the goal.

Elevation is.

You begin to see that everything that was happening to you,
was forcing you to grow.

It was forcing you to:

- become stronger mentally
- become disciplined emotionally
- become strategic in your actions

You stop being reactive.

You become intentional.

You stop asking:

“Why is this happening to me?”

And start asking:

“What is this teaching me?”

That question changes everything.

Because now you are no longer a victim.

You are a student of the experience.

And once you learn the lesson...

You cannot be controlled the same way again.

This is also where you begin to detach from systems that no longer serve you.

You begin to:

- think independently
- move independently
- operate with awareness

You realize that power does not come from money.

Power comes from:

- knowledge
- discipline
- control of self

You begin to understand:

It is he that gives you the power to get wealth.

But that power must be earned.

Through pressure.

Through endurance.

Through growth.

And when you finally step into that power...

You are no longer reacting to the world.

You are creating your position within it.

This is the turning point.

This is where the proxy war fails.

Because you are no longer the same person it started with.

You are not made in the image of the creation but the creator these are the false prophets below

These are those whom are zombies they come like the light but the light is not within them its in their armor or uniform clothing its fake. Its the Courts pretending to be friends aka friend of the court...

Actors agents etc,.. they are dead and they want you to believed vs knowing they want you to follow them to their dead zones where they will leave you, they want they want they do not serve.

Chapter 6 — Identity & Legacy: Who You Really Are

After going through pressure, awareness, and reclaiming power, you are faced with the most important realization:

Who are you... really?

Not what people called you.

Not what systems labeled you.

Not what rumors said about you.

But who you actually are.

In my case, I had to correct my own identity.

Names can be duplicated.

Records can be manipulated.

Narratives can be created.

But truth cannot be erased.

I am Prince Ra Hotep El.

Not the version people tried to create.

Not the version systems tried to label.

But the version I discovered within myself.

This is where identity becomes power.

Because once you know who you are:

- You stop seeking validation
- You stop defending lies
- You stop explaining yourself to people who don't matter

You stand.

And you stand firm.

Legacy is not built through perfection.

It is built through:

- growth
- correction
- discipline
- truth

I am not perfect.

I have made mistakes.
I have learned lessons.

But I corrected myself.

That is what makes a man.

Putting away childish things and stepping into responsibility.

Your legacy is not what people say about you.

Your legacy is what you build, what you stand on, and what you leave behind.

In my case, that includes:

- business
- music
- writing
- knowledge
- structure

And most importantly:

Truth.

Because truth is the one thing that cannot be destroyed.

People may try to discredit you.
They may try to rewrite your story.

But when you stand in truth...

They cannot erase you.

That is legacy.

Legacy is standing tall, regardless of what was thrown at you.

Legacy is not hiding.

Legacy is not folding under pressure.

Legacy is becoming stronger through everything you endured.

And when you reach that point...

You realize something powerful:

You were never what they said you were.

You were always more.

And now...

You know it.

Chapter 7 — The Declaration & The Four Horsemen: Power, Unity, and Sovereignty

This chapter represents authority.

Not opinion.

Not emotion.

Authority.

This is where truth is declared and power is reclaimed at the highest level.

The Declaration stands as a record of prior rights, and the imagery of the Four Horsemen represents mastery of self.

Not destruction.

Not fear.

But power, discipline, and unity.

THE FOUR HORSEMEN — SYMBOLISM OF SELF-MASTERY

The Four Horsemen are not figures of chaos.

They are representations of:

- Control of the mind
- Control of the body
- Control of spirit
- Control of action

The 4 [four] angels aka angels

They stand together, not divided.

Each one represents a level of mastery.

They are not crowned externally.

Their crowns sit beside them.

Because true power is not worn...

It is lived.

THE MARKABA — THE SIX-POINTED STAR

The Four Horsemen stand within a Markaba.

A six-pointed star.

Not as a symbol of religion...

But as a symbol of balance.

The upward triangle represents ascension.

The downward triangle represents grounding.

Together, they form balance between:

- spirit and body
- heaven and earth
- thought and action

At the center of each Horseman...

There is light.

Their pineal centers are activated.

Their chests shine.

This is the heart.

This is alignment.

This is truth.

Behind them, the horses stand calmly, drinking water.

Not at war.

At peace.

Because power does not require chaos.

It requires control.

DECLARATION OF PRIOR RIGHTS AND EVIDENCE OF CEDED LANDS

Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations Treaty of 1866, Article 15

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

This declaration is made to establish and affirm the prior rights of the Choctaw and Chickasaw peoples to lands as guaranteed under Article 15 of the Treaty of 1866 between the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations and the United States of America.

ARTICLE 15: PRIOR RIGHT TO LAND

At the expiration of the ninety days' notice aforesaid, the selection which is to change the tenure of the land in the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations from a holding in common to a holding in severalty shall take place, when every Choctaw and Chickasaw shall have the right to one quarter-section of land, whether male or female, adult or minor; and if in actual possession or occupancy of land improved or cultivated by him or her, shall have a prior right to the quarter-section in which his or her improvement lies.

EVIDENCE OF CEDED LAND

Agricultural Non-Population Schedules (1850–1880)

These records document:

- Farm ownership and management
- Improved and unimproved acreage
- Cultivated lands and agricultural production
- Prior occupation and use of lands

These records stand as proof of prior rights through possession and cultivation.

AFFIRMATION OF RIGHTS

Prior rights have been established.

Through:

- Possession
- Improvement
- Cultivation

These rights existed before any system attempted to redefine ownership.

CONCLUSION

These rights cannot be extinguished without due process and just compensation.

They stand.

They remain.

They are documented.

They are known.

Know your treaties.

Know your rights.

Know who you are.

See this when they watch you study you spy on you and try to isolate you, they are showing that they are afraid of something you must find out about yourself, revealing your power, destroying the weaker ones on a low vibration. They use weapons and ignorance to create a false narrative that could never control a master like me because I am one with the creator and we have a plan, the light is shining so bright in me they use their darkness and idiotic behaviors to make me appear to be one thing but when my garment touches others or move near them they are star struck.

Many look like me but are not me they bare the mark of death because they do not exist in my world only in those whom worship or celebrate this energy. See the people that tried to steal my homes look like me but they are not me nor all skin folk are kin folk.

Chapter 8: The Machinery of Proxy War How systems and people operate within it. Exposure: How the Proxy War Operates Through People

This is where the truth becomes undeniable.

A proxy war does not operate alone.
It operates through people.

Not always aware people...
but participants nonetheless.

Some are paid.
Some are manipulated.
Some are influenced.
Some are simply weak.

But they all play a role.

This is how the system moves.

It does not always come directly at you.

It comes through:

- neighbors
- coworkers
- institutions
- service providers
- strangers
- even family at times

Different faces...

Same behavior.

This is how you recognize it.

People begin to:

- follow you
- monitor you
- question you without reason
- show up where they shouldn't be
- act like they know things they shouldn't know

At first, it feels strange.

Then it becomes consistent.

Then it becomes a pattern.

This is no longer coincidence.

This is coordination.

Some people are doing it for money.

Some are doing it for position.

Some are doing it because they were told to.

Others don't even realize they're being used.

This is what makes it dangerous.

Because it blends into everyday life.

You cannot always point at one person.

Because it is not one person.

It is a network.

A system of participation.

This is where most people get emotional.

They try to confront everyone.

They try to fight everyone.

That is a mistake.

Because the system wants you to react.

It wants you to:

- become aggressive
- lose control
- make a mistake

Because one mistake...

Can be used against you.

This is why control of self is critical.

You must:

- observe
- document
- remain calm
- move strategically

Do not respond to everything.

Not every action deserves a reaction.

Some things are designed to trigger you.

Ignore what does not matter.

Focus on what does.

Exposure is not about yelling.

Exposure is about:

- truth
- documentation
- consistency

When the truth is documented...

It cannot be denied.

This is how the proxy war is defeated.

Not through chaos...

But through clarity.

Not through emotion...

But through discipline.

And once the pattern is exposed...

The system begins to collapse on itself.

Because it cannot survive in the light.

This is where power fully returns to you.

Because now...

You see everything clearly.

Chapter 9 — The Shift: Why the Universe Forces Growth

This is where everything comes together. Spiritual awakening and final transformation.

After the pressure.

After the confusion.

After the exposure.

There is a shift.

And this shift is not comfortable.

When you ask for more:

- more wisdom
- more knowledge
- more understanding
- more power

It does not come easy.

It comes through pressure.

It comes through chaos.

It comes through situations that force you to change.

Most people misunderstand this part.

They think something is going wrong.

But in reality...

Everything is being rearranged.

The universe will:

- remove people from your life
- remove comfort
- remove distractions
- remove things you thought you needed

Why?

Because you cannot carry everything into your next level.

Growth requires separation.

It requires letting go.

This is where many people fail.

They try to hold on.

They try to control outcomes.

They try to stay the same.

But you cannot elevate and remain the same person.

It is impossible.

This is where wisdom comes in.

Like the story of Solomon:

He asked for wisdom.

And with that wisdom came responsibility... and challenges.

Because wisdom reveals truth.

And truth requires decisions.

Another example:

When you are willing to let go,
you show your strength.

You show that you are not controlled by fear.

You show that you trust the process.

This is what separates those who grow...

from those who stay stuck.

Pain will push you to choose:

- run and hide
- distract yourself
- self-destruct

OR

- face it

- learn from it
- grow through it

The shift happens when you choose growth.

When you stop resisting.

When you stop asking:
"Why is this happening?"

And start understanding:
"This is preparing me."

Because that is what this is.

Preparation.

- Preparation for:
- higher responsibility
 - greater awareness
 - increased power

You begin to notice something:

You are calmer.

You are more focused.

You are less reactive.

You are more in control.

This is not weakness.

This is mastery.

You begin to operate differently.

You do not fight every battle.

You do not respond to every situation.

You move with intention.

You move with clarity.

And most importantly...
You move without fear.

Because fear is what keeps people stuck.

Fear is what keeps people repeating cycles.

Once you release
fear...

You break the cycle.

This is the shift.

This is where the
proxy war loses its purpose.

Because it can no
longer control you.

And once it can no
longer control you...

It has no power.

This is where you
step fully into who you are.

Not what they said
you were.

Not what systems
tried to make you.

But who you truly
are.

And once you reach
this point...

There is no going back. Only forward.

Final Chapter — Mastery, Legacy & Completion

This is the completion.

Not the end...
but the transformation into mastery.

You started with pressure.
You moved through confusion.
You gained awareness.
You reclaimed power.
You exposed truth.
You endured the shift.

Now...

You stand in mastery.

Mastery is not perfection.

Mastery is control.

Control of:
- your thoughts
- your emotions
- your actions
- your direction

You no longer react.

You respond.

You no longer chase.

You attract.

You no longer fear.

You understand.

This is where legacy is sealed.

Legacy is not what people say about you.

Legacy is what remains when everything else is gone.

It is:

- your work
- your truth
- your impact
- your structure
- your example

You did not fold.

You did not break.

You did not sell out.

You stood.

That is legacy.

Completion does not mean you stop.

Completion means you evolve into your next level.

You now build:

- your own systems
- your own platforms
- your own structure
- your own legacy

You teach others.

You guide others.

You show others what is possible.

Because you lived it.

This is not theory.

This is experience.

And experience becomes wisdom.

And wisdom becomes power.

And power becomes legacy.

This is the final message:

Know who you are.

Stand in your truth.
Build your legacy.
And never fold.

The war is over.

Mastery has begun.
